Three teams of girls from the Central Foundation Girls School (CFGs), East London, pitched their final app ideas to a "Dragons Den" panel in Westminster last night. The event was attended by a large audience, including Charles Leadbeater and the ex-minister for Schools and Learners, Lord Jim Knight. Our dragons were:

Anthony Lilley – Chief Creative Officer and CEO of Magic Lantern, who has worked on projects such as Top Gear, Doctor Who, Teletubbies, and Spooks.

Desigan Chinniah – Firestarter, Innovator & Geek at Mozilla Labs, the global, nonprofit organisation behind the Firefox browser.

Ian Cleland Ritchie – Chairman of iomart plc., Computer Application Services Ltd., the Interactive Design Institute, and Caspian Learning Ltd.

Jogesh Limbani – Head of Open Innovation at Orange Labs, the Orange International R&D laboratory.

Lopa Patel – Founder of redhotcurry.com, the UK's leading South Asian lifestyle website.
